PRESENTACIÓN DE VIDEO

“EDUCATION TEACHES PRACTICE OF VALUES (AN EXAMPLE OF STORYTELLING)”

Elaborado por profesor Héctor Horacio Murcia Cabrera, Facultad de Administración de Empresas, Universidad Santo Tomás, Bogotá, Colombia.

A la fecha, 25 de febrero de 2019, presenta más de CUATROCIENTAS OCHENTA (480) vistas y varios comentarios.

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=bd6zgLMHjf0&t=245s

THIS VIDEO WAS CREATED TO APPLY KNOWLEDGE AND TECHNIQUES LEARNED IN THE COURSE OF NOVOED "STORYTELLING FOR CHANGE", FEBRUARY AND MARCH, 2015.

IT WAS ACCOMPANIED BY SLIDES AND AUDIOVISUAL MATERIAL THAT WAS PRESENTED SEPARATELY.

In one of my classes I felt I was confused about if I had been efficient and effective in my efforts for many years as a teacher and if I could overcome challenges to emphasize the importance of respecting and remembering the values that today seem to be broken.

I thought about the features of this story that began when I attended a reunion when my birthday was celebrated and also the anniversary of my teaching labor and in which I thought it was put into practice the value of GRATITUDE, not common currently.

By listening to various interventions, I was surprised to notice that one of my former students could not conclude his words because of emotion made him a lump in the throat and prevented him from continuing, recalling the help I gave to his education and TRUST in his ability to work, he was able to be linked to employment, by leaving the world of crippling unemployment.

I recalled the occasion when I found him in a meeting at which he showed me his despair at not having access to postgraduate studies by the limitations that face as a recent graduate of the university without economic resources and political influence.

With this adverse scenario I devoted myself to study his STRENGTHS (and not to emphasize his weaknesses, that after all we all have) to find how to link him to the graduate study. It was possible to do this by applying the maximum values of GENEROSITY and SOLIDARITY, because it was not easy to help him to get a scholarship, that he could eventually achieve, primarily with his potential and enthusiasm.

Thanks to the practice of INDUSTRIOUSNESS the former student finished his studies and related to the world of entrepreneurship, rushing with HONESTY and PERSEVERANCE his work.
He joined a company that unfortunately, after several years of work, went bankrupt due to the hazards of globalization. Consequently, he was out of work and seeing the shadows of unemployment, now more terrifying because he had family responsibilities acquired. He walked the boundaries of suicide, as he told me at a sensitive time in this setting that shadowed his life.

Again, I approached his STRENGTHS and I went to talk with executives from his work area, whom I knew, and I managed to support his linkage to employment by which he came to get several years after his retirement. Then, I understood why he choked and locked of emotion in the act of my birthday where we were.

I felt the sensation, as at other times I helped similarly to other human beings (as a natural act of teaching without expecting anything in return), that with the promotion of education of this person, I helped save his life.

Looking years ago, I remembered that based on the support of my parents, I could study and leave a scene of relative poverty in which we lived, due to the limited possibility of action from them by their low educational background. However, they believed and trusted that his son should succeed, supporting unrestricted access to the wide universe that provides education.

I realized in this true story that EFFICIENCY is achieved by directing courses and learning processes in which the students fully develop their skills and the teacher is primarily a Facilitator, and EFFECTIVENESS is present when the former student gets his whole life purposes and have time to recognize that the teacher worked with his training within a system and a holistic or full horizon in which other teachers and institutions contribute to refine the formation of human beings.

On the other hand, in terms of values, I renewed my sense of gratitude towards my parents because their worldview, HUMILITY AND TOLERANCE helped me to be a better human being and to help others achieve their life goals.